R. R.

A whig friend and patron who has been a subscriber to the Daily Democrat for some time, could not stand the rooster and the cannon's roar and "the clean sweep" through our columns on Wednesday, and so sent word to "stop my paper."

As a matter of course we accommodated him, as we always like to please everybody. We believe, however, that we cannot please our whig friends in publishing whig victories, for the reason that the whigs behaved so badly at the polls that there are none to record.

If, however, our whig patron wished to practice the old game of prescription, we will simply inform him that it is like pulling gray hairs—for one, a dozen come in; and if it were not for a temper a little get ready, we will all together in one voice, hurrah for Pierce and King.

The following song was written by an ardent admirer of the genius of Daniel Webster:

Far away by the shore where the broad wave is sweeping,
A patriot lies, now retired from life's strife,
And the heart of a nation in silence is weeping,
All over the land his memory lingers.

The thousands who filled them with his name no more,
His name, his spirit, no longer is heard no more,
His name, his spirit, no longer is heard no more,
His name, his spirit, no longer is heard no more.

His mind was not one, like the lightning, to wake
The mind of the people in a twinkling;
His power was not one, like the lightning, to wake
The mind of the people in a twinkling;

And passed like the wreck on the hurricane's path;

His name, his spirit, no longer is heard no more.

THE MORMONS.—Henry C. Lee writes from Salt Lake to a Milwaukee, Wis., paper, as follows, in relation to the Latter Day Saints:

"Though we did not expect to come to this city when we left Milwaukee, yet finding that we should get better feed for our horses and avoid a desert by coming this way, we concluded to do so. The city itself contains about 7,000 inhabitants, but besides this, the valley of the Great Salt Lake, from 300 to 600 miles, is thickly settled with farms and smaller cities. The way the Mormons have been led about is a sin. I never saw a more peaceful, sober, thriving, industrious people in all my life. Their city is a perfect pattern of neatness and every body in it seems to be busy and active. They are about establishing a tannery and a large boot and shoe manufacturing plant."

Any person coming here to live, can get a farm for the mere cost of surveying, about $6 for 160 acres, and land, too, that will produce from fifty to sixty bushels of wheat to the acre. What is worth here $1 per bushel."

TERRIBLE.—The Register, of South Bend, Indiana, gives the following account of a terrible deed:

The barn of Elliott Tutt, adjacent to his livery, was consumed by fire, night before last, and the next morning our citizens were shocked by the discovery of the bodies of two boys in the ruins. One of them is a son of Charles Bartland, who is now in California, and the other a boy by the name of Crahen, from Niles. They have both recently left the Catholic college, where they had been attending school; and had probably lodged in the barn for a night or two previous to its burning."

DOUBLE ELOPEMENTS.—A fellow who passes by the brief appellation of "Joe," has been for some time past making himself quite at home about a couple of coffee houses situated near White Water Canal basin, and seems to have devoted himself specially to "doing the amiable" for the respective proprietors' wives.

On Tuesday one of these gentlemen missed his wife, and found she had taken with her all the valuables on the premises. Procuring the assistance of his neighbor, the husband proceeded in search of his faithless wife. She was soon found, and the lost articles recovered, but the woman refused to return. Joe was not seen; but when the two men got home, it was found he had visited coffee house No. 2, passed a counterfeit $5 bill on the bar keeper, and walked off with the mistress of that establishment also!

The pair of disconsolate husbands, after a vain search for the rascally invader of their domestic circle, applied to the police yesterday morning for aid in discovering his whereabouts. The Turk should be hunted up—he is too dangerous to be left at large.—Cin. Nonpareil.

HOW THEY PUNISH TREASON IN PERSIA.—We mentioned, recently, the attempt against the life of the Shah of Persia. We now learn that Haje Suleiman Khan, accused as the instigator of them, was seized, his body carefully drilled with a knife in parts which would not at the moment cause death; pieces of lighted candles were then introduced into the holes, and thus illuminated, it was carried in procession through the bazaar, and finally conveyed to the town gates, and there left in a twin like a fat ram. The Kurre-ai Ain, better known as Bab's Lieutenant, or the Fair Prophetess of Kazoow, who, since the late religious outbreak, has been kept a close prisoner at the capital, has been executed, with some dozen others. His Majesty received three slug wounds in the shoulder, but of all a very slight nature.

REDRESS FOR CUBAN INSOLENCE.—The Richmond Dispatch is outspoken on the subject of late indignities offered to the American citizens by the Cuban authorities, and refers to the course pursued by Oliver Cromwell, when the Spanish Insurrection confined a British subject because he was a heretic, and worshipped in his own house according to his own faith. He sent for the Spanish Ambassador, and demanded his instantaneous release. The Ambassador replied that the king could not interfere with the holy office. Then said Cromwell, I will declare war against the holy office. The hint was sufficient; the man was released. The conduct of the protector offers a model worthy of imitation in all future ages. The government that ceases to protect its own citizens, renders itself every day more and more liable to be insulted. Such, we are convinced, will not be the case with this government; but it is time it were adopting the most energetic measures.

BEAUTY.—Let me see a female possessing the beauty of a meek and modest deportment—of an eye that bespeaks intelligence and purity within—of the lips that speak not guile—let me see a heart kind and benevolent disposition—a heart that can sympathize with distress—and I will never look for the beauty that dwells in the "ruby lips," or "flowing tresses," or "snowy hands," or for other of cetera upon which our poets have harped for so many ages. These fades, when touched by the hand of time, but those ever enduring qualities of the heart shall outlive the reign of time, and grow brighter and fresher, as the ages of eternity roll away.

DULLNESS OF RAZORS.—The Scientific American is responsible for the following on razors:

"Barbers often tell us that razors get tired of shaving, but if laid by for twenty days, they will then shave well. By microscopic examination it is found that the tired razor, from long stropping from the same hand, and in the same directions, has the ultimate particles or fibres of its surface or edge all arranged in one direction, like the edge of a piece of cut velvet; but after a month's rest, these fibres rearrange themselves heterogeneously, by crossing each other, and presenting a saw-like edge, each fibre supporting its fellow, and hence cutting the beard, instead of being forced down flat without cutting, as when laid by. These and many other instances are offered to prove that the ultimate particles of matter are always in motion; and they say in the presence of welding, the absolute momentum of the hammer causes an entanglement of orbits of motion, and hence a rearrangement, as in one piece; indeed, in the cold state, a leaf of gold laid on a polished surface of steel, and stricken smartly with a hammer, will have its particles forced into the steel so as to permanently gild it at the point of contact."

GOOD QUALITIES, like great abilities, are incomprehensible and inaccessible to such as are deprived of them.

"HIGHLAND MARY,"

and in another place the well known couplet:

"O, Mary, de departed shade,
Where is thy place of blissful rest?"

Umbrella dealers are now labelling their wares—"Drygoods for everybody."

Hon. Thos. Corwin, Secretary of the Treasury, arrived here yesterday.
